KNOW BEFORE YOU GO

PRESENTED BY HELLY HANSEN

The brand trusted by Stowe Mountain Resort

- Make yourself visible! Wear bright, reflective clothing and a head lamp. If you approach a snowmobile or grooming machine, move to the side of the trail and direct your headlamp toward it so that the operator can see you.
- Uphill routes are identified with reflective markers along the side of the trail, visible from the point of view of uphill travelers. Look for these markers to help guide you up your route at night.
- Pets are not permitted on resort property, including overnight. Please leave dogs at home.
- Be aware of winch cat operations. Signs that winching may be in progress include a red beacon on the ground or on a snow cat, mounds of snow that have been piled at the top of the trail that is being winched, or a posted warning that winching is in progress.
- Stay away from snowmaking equipment. Never ski over or step on hoses.
- Resort emergency services are available during operational hours, and not overnight. In the event of an emergency, you will need to dial 911.
